Diagnostic laparoscopy is a procedure that allows the health care provider to look directly at the contents of the abdomen and pelvis. The purpose of this examination is to directly assess the presence of pathology as well as to exclude abdominal trauma by laparoscopy, rather than a large abdominal incision (laparotomy). A laparoscope is a videoscope designed for medical use, in which a high intensity light and a high resolution television camera are connected to enable the surgeon to view what is happening inside the body. The laparoscope is put into the abdominal cavity through a hollow tube, and the image of inside the abdomen is seen on a television screen.
